

Media Release 5th April 2018

5 Stars to Diamond Energy

The 2018 Green Electricity Guide* has been released and we are thrilled to be crowned again with the highest rating possible, 5 stars!

Greenpeace have been reviewing electricity retailers since 2009. They have continually rated Diamond Energy highly for our commitment to renewable energy, our customer and community focus and our drive to reduce emissions in a market dominated by large centralized, coal fired electricity generation.

“We’re humbled that our vision to generate change, support our customers and make a difference has been recognised and awarded.

It’s been over 10 years!

We believe that every positive change starts with a great choice, so we choose to continue our journey!” says MD Tony Sennitt.

Diamond Energy will continue to deliver more renewable energy into the market than our customers consume, enable our customers to positively direct their electricity spend to help make a difference and proactively move beyond carbon neutral by offering leading innovations in solar and battery that directly benefit customers.

*The Green Electricity Guide 2018 is produced by Total environment Centre (TEC) for Greenpeace and ranks the environmental performance of retailers selling electricity to Australian households.

